Schulz’s Joyful Portrayal of Ice Sports Featured in New Exhibition at the Schulz Museum
April 15 – August 16, 2015

(Santa Rosa, CA) Charles Schulz started playing ice hockey in a small backyard rink his father created and developed a love of the game from an early age. He joyfully portrayed ice sports in Peanuts, with Snoopy and Woodstock making a tiny birdbath their arena, or Snoopy, the world famous hockey player, scoring winning goals on top of his doghouse.

The Charles M. Schulz Museum's upcoming exhibition, Peanuts in the Penalty Box, runs April 15 through August 16, 2015, and features 60 original Peanuts comic strips showcasing Schulz's venerated pastime and specially selected materials from the Zamboni Company archives.

"It's extremely exciting if you and a couple of your teammates get a breakaway. You're going down the ice, as fast as you can skate – and you make two or three perfect passes and score. It's a really great moment of exhilaration."* – Charles M. Schulz

Schulz began participating in senior hockey tournaments more than 40 years ago, eventually hosting Snoopy's Senior World Hockey Tournament at the Redwood Empire Ice Arena. The Museum is marking the occasion with Peanuts in the Penalty Box.
