50 Years of Franklin

Upstairs Changing Gallery

In 1968, shortly after the assassination of Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., a Los Angeles schoolteacher, Harriet Glickman, wrote to Schulz regarding the integration of Peanuts. As a result of their correspondence, Franklin was introduced to the cartoon. Franklin became a regular member of the Peanuts Gang in daily strips and animated specials. The correspondence between Glickman and Schulz is one of several artifacts that can be seen in this exhibition that showcases the humor and sentiment that Franklin brought to the strip.

My Favorite Peanuts: Reflections of Family and Friends

Downstairs Changing Gallery

In this exhibition, Charles Schulz's wife, Jean, along with some of his children and friends will share their favorite strips and the stories behind them. At times it is a particularly clever or humorous punchline, other times it is one of the themes that he touched on over the years and sometimes it is simply a sentimental memory, but with each strip you will learn something about their creator, Charles Schulz. Using a display of original strips, books, photographs, and ephemera, visitors will learn which stories are the favorites of Schulz's family and friends.
